The governor's words appeared to be taken literally, for before he had left the stand there was a rush of femininity toward him which threatened for a moment to take the kindly statesman off his feet. But he weathered the storm and emerged serene, with a handful of flowers and a "votce" on almost every article in the room, including the red automobile. Indeed, if the laddes could settle the winner of that machine, it is safe to say that it would not often be seen on Washington highways. ### PLEADS FOR FORESTS.

Dr. Thomas E. Will Delivers Lecture at Public Library, Dr. Thomas E. Will, secretary of the American Forestry Association, made a strong plea last night for the American forests, and gave warning of the results of their neglect. Dr. Will's lecture was open to the public, and the hall of the Public Library, where it was delivered, was crowded. He dwelt upon the impor-tance of the forest as a resource, saying that it was second to agriculture in this respect. We consume enough lumber each year," he said, "to floor the State of Delaware, enough shingles to shingle the District of Columbia, enough lath to fill a train extending from Chicago to Memphis, enough fuel to make a woodpile one-half mile long, wide and the property converge stock to build woodpile one-half mile long, wide and high, enough cooperage stock to build a rick four feet high, four feet wide, and fourteen hundred miles long, and enough railroad ties to build a road around the world and back across the Atlantic. The value of our wood products annually consumed would suffice to meet the appropriations of a billion-dollar Congress.

"The American forest is being destroyed as were the buffalo, and, as in plies of native gas and oil.'
